Primary realignment vs suprapubic cystostomy for the management of pelvic fracture-associated urethral injuries: a systematic review and meta-analysis

Barrett K, Braga LH, Farrokhyar F, Davies TO

Record Status
This is a systematic review that meets the criteria for inclusion on DARE.

Bibliographic details
Barrett K, Braga LH, Farrokhyar F, Davies TO. Primary realignment vs suprapubic cystostomy for the management of pelvic fracture-associated urethral injuries: a systematic review and meta-analysis. Urology 2014; 83(4): 924-929

PubMedID
24680459

DOI
10.1016/j.urology.2013.12.031

Indexing Status
Subject indexing assigned by NLM

MeSH
Cystostomy /methods; Erectile Dysfunction /etiology; Fractures, Bone /complications; Humans; Male; Pelvic Bones /pathology; Research Design; Treatment Outcome; Urethra /injuries /surgery; Urethral Stricture /etiology; Urinary Catheterization; Urinary Incontinence /etiology; Urologic Surgical Procedures, Male /methods

AccessionNumber
12014024327

Date bibliographic record published
15/05/2014